

117TH CONGRESS
2D SESSION

S. 4726

To alleviate pandemic learning loss.

IN THE SENATE OF THE UNITED STATES

AUGUST 2, 2022

Mr. CRUZ introduced the following bill; which was read twice and referred to the Committee on Finance

A BILL

To alleviate pandemic learning loss.

1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representa-
2 tives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

3 SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

4 This Act may be cited as the “Catch Up Our Kids
5 Act of 2022”.

6 SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

7 Congress finds the following:

8 (1) The COVID–19 pandemic and the resulting 9 school disruptions will have a profound and lasting
10 impact on students across the United States.

11 (2) While most countries of the world closed
12 schools at the beginning of the pandemic as a pre-

1 caution, the United States was an outlier by keeping
2 schools closed to in-person instruction for unneces-
3 sarily extended periods of time and favoring remote
4 instruction.

5 (3) There is no scientific evidence that showed 6 elementary or secondary schools to be vectors for 7 community spread, nor that school-aged children
8 were uniquely vulnerable to the COVID–19 virus. To 9 date, schools have not been proven to be major
10 spreaders of COVID–19.

11 (4) According to a study done by the Harvard
12 University Center for Education Policy Research, 30
13 percent of students in elementary and secondary
14 schools during the 2020–2021 school year attended
15 schools that conducted classes remotely for more
16 than 16 weeks.

17 (5) The Harvard University study showed that
18 high-poverty districts and districts that serve pre-
19 dominately Black and Hispanic students were more
20 likely to have remote instruction. The study also 21 showed that remote instruction was a primary driver
22 of widening academic achievement gaps.

23 (6) The achievement gaps and learning loss
24 have proven remote instruction to be a failure.

1 (7) In mathematics, studies show that students
2 who attended mostly in-person instruction during
3 the 2020–2021 school year lost approximately 20
4 percent worth of a typical school year’s mathematics
5 learning. Comparatively, students who spent most of 6 the school year in remote instruction lost 50 percent
7 of math instruction.

8 (8) According to a McKinsey study, on average,
9 students in elementary and secondary schools are 3
10 months behind in reading as a result of the pan-
11 demic school disruptions.

12 (9) Pandemic school closures, and the con-
13 sequent learning loss, have reversed the progress
14 made to narrow the academic achievement gaps for 15 historically disadvantaged groups. Low-income,
16 Black, and Hispanic students fell further behind
17 compared to White, Asian, and high-income stu-
18 dents.

19 (10) Learning loss was shown to be less signifi-
20 cant in States and school districts that reopened in-
21 person instruction sooner. States with the lowest
22 rates of remote instruction in both high- and low-
23 poverty districts, such as Texas and Florida, saw
24 smaller rates of learning loss and gaps in achievement compared to States with the highest rates of remote instruction.

(11) If pandemic learning loss is permanent, studies show that students who attend high-poverty schools may see a decline of 5 percent in average earnings over their lifetimes. Overall, elementary and secondary school learning loss could result in a $2,000,000,000,000 decline in lifetime earnings.
